How it Has Spread in Michigan—Muskegou Falls in Line.

The trumpet notes of "The Little Conqueror" have sounded far and near in the triumphal march through Michigan. From the crowded city to the hamlet the echo is resounding, bringing words of hope and good cheer to thousands of sufferers. Public endorsement is its strength, and that is why success follows each advancing step. People are beginning to understand that there is no proof like home proof. Muskegon has produced several such cases as that of Mrs. Chas. Sleygh, and they like to read and know about them, for it means comfort to all. Mrs. Sleygh is a citizen of Muskegon and resides at No. 260 Lake St. She says:

"I could not speak words of praise that would be strong enough to tell what I feel for Doan's Kidney Pills. My trouble seemed to be the result of a severe attack of the grip which I had about four years ago, and it developed into a genuine kidney affliction. During these years I have suffered everything. At times the misery has made me wish I were dead. My back was in a terrible condition. I had spells of such severity that the pain would force me to walk bent over for a whole week. I could not stand up straight. The flesh on my back over the kidneys was sore to the touch, the bladder became affected as well, and I have suffered with it more than tongue can tell. The urine was scanty, and at times the bladder became affected as well, and I have suffered with it more than tongue can tell. The urine was scanty, and at times would not come at all. There was much inflammation, causing fever and an intense burning and stinging feeling. I was feeling badly when I commenced taking Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at Brundage's drug store. They have done great things for me. I now feel like another person. My terrible backache is better, the urine comes naturally, and my strength and urine comes naturally, and my strength and nervous system are greatly improved. I shall continue taking Doan's Kidney Pills for some time yet. You can use my endorsement of them; I am glad to give it."

HE KEEPS ALL LETTERS

Burrows Copies After the Habits of Senator Quay.

SECRET OF THE LATTER'S POWER.

Ex-Congressman Thomas A. E. Wendlock a Recent Visitor at the National Capital-Michigan a Great Tobacco Manufacturing State According to Report of Commissioner of Internal Revenue-Pensions Secured by Michigan Congressmen.

Washington, Dec. 21.-When William E. Eaton was editor of the Kslamazo Telegraph he was one of the most popular men in the Michigan Press asso ciation. He was a very warm friend or Congressman Burrows, and a loyal political supporter. He went to Rockford, Ills., when he left the Telegraph During the past week he has been visiting Senator Burrows, who welcomed him most hospitably and entertained him royally.

Ex-Congressman Thomas A. E. Wea dock, now of Detroit, who represented the Bay City congressional district in the Fifty-second and Fifty-third congresses, was here recently on private business. He was several times upon the floor of the house of representatives and was welcomed by many of his old associates who still remain on the congressional treadmill.

Senator Burrows has been keeping letters and papers, very much after the habit of Senator Quay of Pennsylvania, although the two statesmen did not know until recently that they were working on the same lines. Senator Quay has copies of all letters received by him during his political life, and that is one secret of his power in Pennsylvania.

Knows All About Them.

In like manner, for ten years or more, Senator Burrows has been collecting letters from people all over the state of Michigan, and today he has biographies of men in every county of his old congressional district. Since he came to the senate he has received and kept letters from all over the state. He requests applicants for office to write down their life histories for him; and then he knows all about them. It is a great system.

The annual report of the commission er of internal revenue shows that Michigan is a great tobacco manufacturing state; a fact not generally known, ever to our own people. There were seventeen dealers in leaf tobacco in Mich igan during the past year; and there were 168 tobacco manufacturers, and 1,252 cigar manufacturers during the same period, and the report shows that there were 149 peddlers of tobacco, cigars and snuff licensed. The cigar manufacturers consumed 1,764,971 pounds of tobacco, and they put 99,-723,295 cigars on the market. These dealers paid total internal revenue licenses of $2,141,502. Quite a good showing for that business.

Maintains His Popularity. Fred Irland maintains his popularity in the house of representatives. He is regarded as the most reliable and rapid stenographer now employed at the capital. Besides, his training as a newspaper man makes him almost in-valuable to the congressmen who lack educational qualifications, and must rely on some "literary feller" to spell and punctuate their remarks. All Michigan people here are proud of Irland; largely because of the fact that he is not stuck on himself, but is modest and unpretentious, as he is able.

Congressman Spalding of Monroe, leading member of the committee on banking and currency, says: "I do not expect that there will be any revision of our currency laws by the present congress. You cannot tell the people too plainly and too often, that as long as the senate is in the hands of a combination of Populists, Silver Republic ans and Democrats it is impossible for the Republicans to do anything. True, we might pass a bill of some kind through the house, but it could not become a law without the concurrence of the senate. Consequently, it would be useless for the house of representatives to waste time in framing a bill. might as well pass a law declaring that the moon is made of green cheese.'

Michigan Pensions. During the past week the Michigan congressmen have secured pensions aggregating $12,000 per annum, and still they are calling for more. Congress-man Sheldon of Houghton is a member of the committee on pensions, and Congressman Samuel W. Smith of Pontia s a member of the committee on invalid pensions. These gentlemen are seeing to it that Michigan veterans do not get left in the shuffle for justice and proper recognition.

Senator McMillan says that the bill providing for a new gunboat to take the place of the Michigan on the great lakes will soon be made a law. The new boat will probably be constructed at Detroit, although it is possible that Cleveland may get the work.

The appointment of Hamilton King of Olivet college to be consul general to Siam meets with the approval of the entire Michigan delegaion. This is the second Michigan scholastic to receive substantial recognition by the present administration.

Hon. Edwin H. Hoskins, one time secretary of the Michigan state senate, and well known throughout the state, recently suffered the loss of his son Fred, who died of consumption. The young man has been stenographer of Senator McMillan's committee. He was a very bright young man, and his parents had hoped for a brilliant future of successful manhood, when the incurable disease attacked him, and he gradually faded away before them.

Secretary Alger Indisposed. Secretary of War Alger has been suffering with a severe cold, with symp-toms of the grip. Although indisposed the general has gone to the department every day to transact important business, but he has not remained at his desk long at a time. His physician says that with care he will soon regain his strength. In the postoffice department there are pending seventy-one applications for new postoffices in various parts of Michigan. The clerk in charge of the Michigan desk says that when people begin calling for new postoffices in various parts of the country it is a sure sign of prosperity and increased population. He says that Michigan leads all north-western states in the demand for new postoffices at the present time, Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms of Grand Rapids is located on Capitel Hill, but he will not stay there long. All of the Michigan congressmen live in what is known as "the northwest," a mile or more distant from the Capitol but near the White House and executive departments.

Annexation of Hawail. It is conceded in the senate today by leaders of both political parties that the treaty providing for the annexation of Hawaiian Islands will not be ratified by the necessary two-thirds vote of the senate. The majority of the committee on foreign relations will continue to keep the subject to the front, with a hope that the pendulum of time may swing backward, and cause a revolution in public sentiment which will compel the ratification of the treaty. The Re-publican senators who have been recently opposing the treaty ratification will receive the distinguished compliments of President McKinley in the near future.

Speaker Reed will also have reason to give considerable thought to his political future before his opposition to Hawaiian annexation is carried to success. The speaker and recalcitrant Republican senators will be given to officially understand that the Republican party platform adopted at St. Louis in June, 1896, contained a declaration which not be ignored. The party platform contains the following language: "Our foreign policy should be at all times firm, vigorous, dignified, and all our interests in the western hemisphere carefully watched and guarded. The Hawaiian Islands should be controlled by the United States, and no foreign power should be permitted to interfere with them; the Nicaragua canal should be built, owned and operated by the United States, and by purchase of the Danish islands we should secure a proper and much needed naval station in the West Indies."

In Favor of the Monroe Doctrine. Senator Burrows of Michigan says: The declaration concerning Hawaiian affairs was a declaration in favor of the Monroe doctrine. If we fail to annex Hawall at this time, Japan or some other country will proceed to take possesion of these islands. Then, in maintenance of the Monroe doctrine, it will be necessary for us to fight some foreign nation for the possession of Hawaii. It would be much better to take possession in a peaceable man-

Strange as it may appear, certain enators are playing Cuba against Hawall, regardless of the merits of the claims of the annexationists. The Cuban sympathizens drep all idea of merit and simply say that Cuba must be free, or Hawaii will go to the Japanese or to any other power. They will not argue the point; but simply utter their ultimatum. The senators who believe in annexation as a patriotic necessity, view this element in the equation with alarm. It is an element which possesses and commands recognition, but carries no argument beyond the argu-ment of force and they hesitate to yield

Change of Public Sentiment. The arrival of Japanese Envoy Hoshi in this country is regarded as likely to cause a change of public sentiment in favor of annexation. Our people are mercurial as the French at times, and when they see the anxiety of Japan to contend for Hawall, they are expected to show their resentment by expressions of public opinion which may affect the views of their representatives in the national capital. It is believed and hoped by the friends of annexation that this may be the result of Hoshi's presence here. In the meantime organized lobbies are at work for and against Hawaiian annexation as well as for and against Cuban independence. These are great affairs and money is being expended on both sides of both questions. As is customary with the principal parties in such large transactions, they are employing ex-congressmen and exsenators as their attorneys, and they might as well throw their money down rat holes, for the discredited statesmen are without votes and without influence.

Correspondents in Havana. The Spanish legation seems to have a man in Cuba who is writing daily letters to a Washington newspaper, and to other papers, trying to demonstrate that autonomy is popular. The Cuban legation seems to have another man in Havana who writes syndicate letters to papers in this country demon strating that autonomy is a failure. Congressman Hepburn of Iowa says: "I take no stock in what I read in the way of correspondence from Havana or Honolulu. I am trying to ascertain facts from official sources. Consular reports are the best sources of information.

One thing may be written down as almost certain, and that is, that foreign affairs will occupy a great deal of attention during the present congress, and little if anything is likely to be done. Speaker Reed will prevent Cuban recognition. In that he is in ac-cord with McKinley. He will also prevent Hawaiian annexation. In that he is antagonistic to McKinley. He is the big factor in all political and international questions.

There is an element of inharmony in the deliberations in the committee on foreign relations. Senator Morgan of Alabama and Senator Turple of Indiana, both Democrats, and both possessed of superior ability, are bitter enemies.

Blame Upon Senator Morgan Senators who understand the situation are inclined to place the blame upon Senator Morgan, who is more agressive and earnest than diplomatic It is said in the meetings of the committee, as well as upon the floor of the senate, there have been many collisions between these statesmen. Senator Turple is a scholarly man, an international lawyer and a thorough patriot but he is as gentle as a woman. avoids quarrels and bickerings, and contents himself with logical ments of propositions. Senator Morgan, on the contrary, is dogmatic and sneers at all opposition. He is sarcastic and sometimes absolutely careless of the feelings of others. Under the circumstances the Intense earnestness of Morgan for annexation of Hawaii tends to silence Turple, who does not like to agressively argue with the man who has so bitterly opposed him on all oc-DUNBAR.

GAVE VINCENT FORGED PAPER.

Development in the Transactions of th Son of Adolph Luctgert.

Chicago, Dec. 21.-Arnold C. Luetgert, son of the sausage-maker, admits that he forged a name to notes amounting to $4,750, and turned them over to Attorney William A. Vincent, who was Luetgert's chief counsel at his first trial for the murder of his wife. The lawyer withdrew from the case when he realized that he had been deceived, and when a story that he had been an easy victim of young Luetgert was first suggested he endeavored to suppress the details. He finally admitted that the young man had told him of having forged indorsements on three notes that he gave Vincent.

Arnold Luetgert laughed when it was suggested that trouble might come of his free use of signatures not his own. Arnold said: "I don't see nothing so bad about it. It's a matter between Vincent and me. If he don't holler it's nobody's business. I did admit to Vincent that I signed another name besides my own to the notes, and am ready to stand by it. There's somebody else in it, too, but I am willing to take the blame and stand for the whole thing. I ain't afraid, and Vincent's holler won't do him no good."
